

God of Redemption

He sent redemption to his people

– Psalm 111:9a

A little boy builds a sailboat. He proudly takes it to the water, but it sails away from him and is lost. Weeks later, he sees his boat in a store window. The shop owner, who bought it from someone else, refuses to give it back and tells the boy he must buy it. The boy works hard to earn the money, then buys his boat, saying, "You're twice mine, little boat. First because I made you, and now because I bought you."

What a tender picture of God's redeeming love for each of us.

God is the God of Redemption

Biblically, redemption is about God reclaiming what has been lost—the people He created—through the costly gift of His Son Jesus. Through this priceless gift extended to us, God buys back all who believe in Jesus from their bondage to sin and death and brings them into His kingdom of life.

His redemption is on display at Align.

He offers redemption to our clients—helping them embrace His gift of life instead of abortion and equipping them for His noble calling of parenthood.

He also redeems places—providing ample space to provide ultrasounds in Ephrata and transforming a dark strip club into a wholesome, spacious place for our new Columbia center.
